DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the clip and key operated lock must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 4, applicant should clarify the structure and mounting of the "clip" fastener.

Regarding claim 6, applicant should clarify the how the panel serves as a lever "when the panel is in an open position."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

5. Claims 1-2, 4, 6-8 and 11-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Reznikov et al. [US 6,378,965B1].

Regarding claims 1 and 15, Reznikov et al. disclose a panel/handle (66) for circuit sled module (24, figure 2) comprising:

- a panel/handle having a front, top and a bottom (figure 5), the panel being rotatably connected via by means of a hinge pin (67) to the circuit sled module (figure 5); and

- at least one hook (86, 87) near the bottom of the panel engaging the catch of a tray (28, figure 6c) when the panel is rotated into a closed position.

Regarding claims 2, 4, 11 and 13-14, as best understood, Reznikov et al. disclose a releasable fastener (77) locking the panel to the sled module (figure 6c).

Regarding claim 6, Reznikov et al. disclose the panel serving as a lever for assisting extraction of the circuit sled module from the tray.

Regarding claims 7 and 12, Reznikov et al. further disclose at least one side wall having at least one hook extending a portion of the side wall near the bottom of the panel (figure 5, column 1, lines 48-55).

Regarding claim 8, Reznikov et al. disclose the circuit sled module being a hard disk drive (abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reznikov et al. in view of Gonzales [US 4,334,261].

Regarding claim 3, Reznikov et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the fastener being a screw.

Gonzales discloses a module (24) being inserted within a chassis and secured by a screw (figure 2).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to use the screw design of Gonzales in Reznikov et al., for the purpose of rigidly securing the sled module in the chassis.

8. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reznikov et al. in view of Pansaerts et al. [US 4,547,835].

Regarding claim 5, Reznikov et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the fastener being a key operated lock.

Pansaerts et al. disclose a module (figure 1) being securing within a chassis by means of a key operated lock.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to use the key operated lock to secure the sled module of Reznikov et al. in place, as suggested by Pansaerts et al., for the purpose of preventing theft of the modules.

9. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reznikov et al. in view of Kim et al. [US 6,288,902 B1].

Regarding claim 9, Reznikov et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the front panel having vents therein.

Kim et al. disclose a sled module (114) having a panel/handle (220) including a plurality of vents (218, figure 6b).

It would have been an obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to have vents in the handle of Reznikov et al., as suggested by Kim et al., for the purpose of providing cooling.

10. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reznikov et al. in view of Varghese et al. [US 5,896,273].

Regarding claim 10, Reznikov et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for grounding tabs electrically connecting the panel to an adjacent panel.

Varghese et al. disclose a module (figure 2) mounted in a chassis including at least one grounding tab (102, figures 2 and 3a-3b).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to include grounding tabs on a panel of Reznikov et al., as suggested by Varghese et al., for the purpose of providing grounding between adjacent modules.

Conclusion
